A Fond Farewell

by John Royce

In March 1999, our offer was accepted on a house we almost didn't get. Serendipitously, our Alamitos Beach condo was originally purchased by our new home's sellers! That's right. Ten years prior, they sold 275 Esperanza Ave #302 and moved into a little Cal Heights Spanish Revival charmer at 3601 Olive Avenue! Kismet, right? "Don't get too excited," realtor Bette warned. "Business is business and there are other offers on the table." Indeed, they accepted an offer from first time buyers with no contingency. We were crushed. Nothing else compared. Lucky for us, Bette suggested we submit a backup offer. "First-time buyers; anything could happen." Sure enough, on escrow's final day they pulled out. Taking on an old house suddenly seemed too daunting. We swooped in and sealed the deal.

During our 22 years on Olive Avenue, our old house absorbed time, effort and finances, as did Cal Heights and the Bixby community of neighborhoods we've shared and loved with all of you – labors of love, all of it. When we work together to support and improve the communities we share, we connect ourselves to and experience the places we call home in a way that others seldom do. After two decades of tree plantings, alley cleanups, home tours, commercial corridor litter picks, supporting and promoting local butchers, bakers, candlestick makers, events and organizations, Cal Heights will forever remain dear to our hearts and souls.

As CHNA president, I wrote often about volunteers. So, as our thirty years in Long Beach fades, to those who volunteer to improve this special place, who recognize the value of local merchants, restaurants and service providers, and who appreciate the sense of place secured by maintaining our historic fabric, thank you. As challenges mount, your efforts matter more than ever, and hopefully more will join your ranks of kindness, caring, and generosity.

Our decision to leave ranks amongst the most challenging of our three decades as a couple. Recently retired, we found ourselves yearning for more peace, tranquility and nature, and found it in the lovely surroundings of the Santa Ynez Valley. Thanks for the love, Cal Heights. It has been our pleasure. Don't forget to clean your stoops!

Love always, John and Kent. 🐾

President's Message

This issue's letter is composed of 100% recycled topics, but should provide a bit more useful detail on each.

Firstly: As you may remember from the last issue, we are going to try to pull off a Virtual Historic Home Tour this year. We are still working on details, and will likely be, for quite some time. One thing that we are absolutely certain of is our need for participating homes. We would like to hear from people interested in making their home and/or garden available for video and still photo documentation for use in a virtual home tour. We hope to fully explore the options a virtual tour can offer around timing, duration and methods of access and presentation. Rather than physically opening your home to visitors, we hope to work with you to create the tour in advance with the visitors able to appreciate your home without ever actually entering it. If you are interested in exploring this, please email us at info@calheights.com.

Secondly: I got more responses than I expected to my raising of the 'tree planting' topic last time, so I wanted to explore that just a little more here, today. To plant a tree in your parkway you are supposed to get a permit from the city before you begin. There is also a list of city-approved trees for you to choose from for your planting. Detailed information on the permitting process, including the form, and the city-approved list can be found at <http://www.longbeach.gov/PW/Services/Street-Trees/>.

If at any stage in the process (including the actual planting, or for advice on after-care, or whatever may come up) you would like our assistance you can reach us at info@calheights.org as well.

Regards,

Hugh Little

Cal Heights Looking Back

By Frances Stoner

One of the few pleasures we have had during the lockdown was walking our beautiful neighborhood. We joined with countless other neighbors hunting for hidden bears, counting colorful pinwheels and reading funny riddles written in chalk. Boy, we must have really racked up the miles, but as it turned out we have nothing on our neighbor Larry Hill.

I often spotted Larry on our walks and when he passed our house, always with a friendly wave and I knew a big smile under that mask and wondered how much he walked. One day I asked him. "I've walked just shy of 2,000 miles this past year, wearing out two pairs of Birkenstock sport sandals and three pairs of Hoka Bondi shoes." Wow, if Larry walked in a straight line he'd be in Nashville by now!

Turns out Larry is a bit of a Renaissance man, someone who is adept at many things. His current title is Tutor and Online Champion at Concorde Career College. Over the years he has taught math and algebra to thousands of Respiratory Therapy and Vocational Nursing students. Although born in California, he spent many years in Canada where his father was a member of Six Nations. His educational background was in electronic music and economics. He thought about writing symphonic music with a synthesizer twist, but his real love was writing. "Living in Canada at the time I thought I would write the great Canadian Novel and immediately went into writer's block for a decade." Not to worry, Larry got his mojo back and since then has published several novels, written hundreds of short stories, poems and even screenplays. He has also continued with his music, both composing and playing instruments.

Another interest of Larry's is gourmet cooking, a gift his mother bestowed on him with her passion for fine food. A suggestion by a friend that Larry write about food since he was a great cook turned into a 17 year stint as the food critic for the Grunion Gazette. He tried to always remain anonymous while dining at local restaurants and kindly did not write about places he did not enjoy.

While visiting relatives in Bixby Knolls Larry would drive around Cal Heights admiring the neighborhood, especially the elevated lots down 37th street. He and his wife, Jennifer, moved here seven years ago and Larry has been walking our streets ever since. When asked about what he thought about during all that strolling he remarked "I am thinking about many things, plots for books, song arrangements and always a little time being grateful for my wife, my health and our good fortune." 🐾

As spring approaches, the City of Long Beach is making new progress in its response to the COVID-19 pandemic. At the time of writing, over 180,000 doses of the COVID-19 vaccine have been administered in the City, or approximately 34% of the population over the age of 16. Additionally, the City of Long Beach is now administering vaccine using two new mobile vaccination clinics. If you are interested in requesting a home appointment, please call (562) 570-4636 for assistance. To register for a vaccine appointment, please visit <https://myturn.ca.gov/> or email covid19vaccine@longbeach.gov.

On March 16th the City Council voted unanimously in support of the Long Beach Recovery Act. The $207 million proposal focuses on various economic, equity, and public health priorities to promote a prosperous, inclusive, and responsible recovery for Long Beach residents.

Economic Recovery - $51 Million, including:

- $13 million for testing, contact tracing
- $5 million for restaurants, breweries and bars
- $4 million to nonprofits and arts organizations
- $9 million for digital and economic inclusion

Healthy and Safe Community - $72.8 million, including:

- $13 million for testing and contact tracing
- $5 million for health equity and health outreach programs
- $12 million for people experiencing homelessness

Securing our City's Future - $83.2 million, including:

- $48 million to replenish city reserves, which have nearly depleted in response to the pandemic
- $30 million to eliminate the FY 2022 budget deficit so that we do not impact any critical services as we recover
- $5.2 million to end city employee furlough program so that we can get back to full operations

I want to thank the 7th District community for placing its trust in its local government and for working with us through this difficult time. Our best days are ahead of us.

As a reminder, the District 7 office is practicing social distancing. Please continue to reach out to my office by calling 562-570-7777 or emailing district7@longbeach.gov. A member of my staff will connect with you as soon as possible. ↩

The Latest on COVID-19 Vaccines in Long Beach

By Marion Saffery

The City of Long Beach is making great strides toward getting COVID-19 vaccines into the arms of its residents, so much so that it has made national news headlines as “a model for the national vaccine rollout” (New York Times, Feb. 3, 2021).

This is in part because Long Beach has its own health department—separate from Los Angeles County’s—which, according to Mayor Garcia, allows Long Beach to “move fast and make decisions quickly.” That’s good news for all of us.

The city has also done a fine job of keeping residents informed about how, when and where to get vaccinated using an information hub called VaxLB. There, Long Beach residents can stay informed and can sign up to be notified when it’s their turn to be vaccinated via California’s My Turn notification system at my.turn.ca.gov.

As of this writing, Long Beach residents in the following groups are eligible to get a COVID-19 vaccine, subject to availability:

- People 65 or older;
- Healthcare workers (including long-term-care residents and staff);
- Government emergency-response workers (including EMS, firefighters, and law-enforcement and emergency-management personnel);
- Food and agriculture workers (including food-service workers and grocery-store employees);
- Education and childcare professionals (including nannies and after-school program personnel);

In addition, on March 8th, Long Beach opened COVID-19 vaccination-eligibility to residents with physical or developmental disabilities. To get a vaccine, eligible residents may show up to the Long Beach Convention Center (at 300 E. Ocean Blvd.) Monday through Saturday between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. No appointment is needed, however those hoping to receive a vaccine must bring documentation to show eligibility—such as a placard or a doctor’s note—and proof of Long Beach residency, such as a utility bill showing the resident’s address or a valid driver’s license.

Also, starting March 15th, healthcare providers “may use their clinical judgement” to give COVID-19 vaccines to California residents aged 16-64 with certain health conditions and disabilities. (For more information, visit the California

City Wide Cleanup!

Please mark your calendars: Neighborhood Cleanup Day on April 24th at 8:30 am. Long Beach City's Neighborhood Leadership Program is on hiatus this year, but facilitators of the program, the Neighborhood Leadership Program Ambassadors, are organizing a city wide cleanup.

CHNA Clean Streets and the BKBIA are part of this day of service and are asking for all hands on deck to give the entire neighborhood from Cal Heights to Los Cerritos and everything in between a once over.

Trash pickup, sweeping, watering, reporting graffiti and dumped items...all of it. Volunteers can meet at Wardlow and Lime or the Expo Arts Center on April 24 at 8:30 am to get started.

Lauren Vizzini (right) and Elena Buenrostro (left) are the owners of Goods on Orange which has taken over the space formerly known as Orange Estate Salvage. They have brought in a whole host of new sellers and while still a vintage shop it definitely has a new fresh vibe and offers everything from cool 70's retro clothing to local made craft products, art pieces, hand made jewelry and garden essentials and plants.

The store will be holding a special pop up event on April 11 & 12th that will include even more sellers from the local area. Some of the new sellers currently in store are Orange Peel (vintage clothing, Records and more), Hellbound (70's Classic Rock inspired items), Art of Up-Cycle (Repurposed goods and gifts) and Good Goods which is Lauren and Elena's area in the front half of the store.

Goods on Orange is located at 3414 Orange Ave. Currently the hours are Wednesday to Saturday 11 to 5 and Sunday 11 to 4. Check out their Instagram @goodsonorange and see what fantastic items this female owned collective has to offer to our area and neighborhood.

IN THE KNOW'LLS
What's New? What's Happening?

by Blair Cohn, Executive Director BKBIA

Now as we roll into April, we are feeling a bit more optimistic. Our winter coat is finally shed. We started some spring planting and when I look off to the horizon I can see summer waiting in the wings for us. (Now I just need to shed my COVID "19" and get beach-ready!)

The song goes: "For the times they are a-changing." Yes, true. This may be slowly but surely, but we see big changes ahead of us. We are hoping for even better tiers and the opportunity for some "normal" programming, i.e., a concert in August? Maybe an in-person First Fridays? In-person Knights of the Round (Turn)Table? A guy can dream. In the meantime, the BKBIA is seriously full-steam-ahead in the economic recovery. And guess what? We are going to need your help. Are you surprised?

We are in SOS mode. "Save our Shops! Save our Services! Save our Storefronts!" As you start to become more comfortable coming back out again more regularly, we hope you will help spend some money at the serviced-based businesses, especially those that were shut down the longest. This is an old fashioned, World War II all-in-it-together-type campaign for everyone to roll up their sleeves and open their pocketbooks. We need your continued help to build the city's economy, especially the Bixby Knolls economy. The CARES Grant Funds we received went to help those who were able to remain open and now we anticipate funds from the city's Economic Recovery Plan to help those shut down the longest. The bottom line is always the same: Please support your local businesses.

And what about any changes at the BKBIA? Yes, it is quite possibly true. We have talked for months about the sunsetting of our redevelopment funds. To recap, we received a 10-year contract just before the governor eliminated all redevelopment agencies and programs. These funds have allowed us staffing, events, promotions, Clean & Safe programs (especially the private security patrols), grown First Fridays, added art components to the district, and really gave the BKBIA the muscle to take the business district, and the neighborhoods, to a much better place. We are continuing our discussions with the council offices and city departments about what the BKBIA can do to raise revenues as well as what the city can do to help supplement these funds. Changes could come in staffing, energy, and programming. We are hoping that this will not be the case.

If you are so inclined, and we hope you are, you can always make a donation to the Bixby Knolls Community Foundation 501c3, either through our website at www.bixbyknollsinfo.com or directly to our office at 4321 Atlantic Avenue. We thank those who have already made generous donations to the foundation.

Here's our monthly Business Recommendation:

Cali Bowls, 3418 Long Beach Boulevard. Healthy, locally sourced proteins and vegetables, plus surfing and music. The owners came up with the idea a few years back when they were unable to find fresh and healthy food that was also affordable and quick after surfing sessions. Working with their mother, they came up with some homemade sauces to go with fresh veggies and proteins that would please the public. It took the owners two years, but they agreed that Long Beach — especially Bixby Knolls — would be a perfect location to serve their food. We highly recommend this healthy option for the whole family. Incredibly friendly staff, too!

That's it for right now. Get your shots, stay positive, take time to smell the flowers, come lend a hand with the cleanup.

If you are not currently getting our email updates, I encourage you to sign up for the newsletters at www.bixbyknollsinfo.com.

You can also follow us on Facebook and Instagram: Facebook.com/BKBIA, @bixbyknolls, @firstfridayslb.
